10. General Bout Description

- a) Each non-title Karate Combat contest shall be 3 rounds. Each round shall be 3 minutes in duration, with a rest period of 1 minute between each round.
- b) Preceding the bell to begin each bout the referee will instruct each fighter to perform a traditional karate bow to their opponent with the following commands: Yoi (ready), Otega-ni Rei (bow to each other).
- c) During the fighting action when one fighter becomes grounded* the referee will begin a visible finger-count from five (5) to one (1) representing the length of time that the standing fighter may continue their legal attack and the downed fighter may fight back from the ground. At the end of the "Five-Count", the referee will separate the fighters, order the downed fighter to immediately stand and quickly restart the action from that same position in the pit. During this restart, both fighters shall maintain their defense. A downed fighter who fails to immediately rise at the command of the referee risks warnings, penalization, disqualification or loss by TKO.

*The definition of a grounded fighter is determined by the regulatory jurisdiction if it differs in any way from the definition provided below: A fighter is considered grounded when any part of the body other than the soles of their feet are touching the fighting area floor

Note that the Pit Wall is NOT considered the ground. In reference to the pit wall, a fighter shall only be considered grounded if he is directly facing the wall and has both hands on it.

- d) When a fighter is attacking his downed opponent, he may do so only with hand strikes and he must maintain an upright and controlled position while attacking. When one of the fighters considered grounded hammerfist and ridge-hand strikes are not allowed. The "top" fighter may place a single knee on his downed opponent, but once a second knee goes (and stays) down, or both fighters are considered grounded, the referee will stop the action, stand the fighters and immediately restart the action from that same position in the pit.
- e) During the rest period between rounds, the fighters licensed second and cutman will enter the pit to address the fighters' needs under the supervision of a commission inspector.
- f) Whenever a fighter is injured by a foul that causes time to be stopped or is finished by KO or TKO, the uninjured opponent shall assume the traditional kneeling position (seiza) on the opposite side of the pit until the opponent has recovered or the referee indicates that the uninjured fighter should rise.
- g) A fighter may submit to his opponent by either tapping their hand continuously on any area of the pit, placing one knee on the ground and one hand above their head or by verbally submitting to the referee. A fighter's chief second may concede the match by a method determined by the presiding commission.
- h) If the final judges' scores result in a draw, there will be one additional Sudden Victory round, the result of which will determine the winner. If the sudden victory round is scored a draw then the official result will be a draw.

11. Stopping Contest

- a) The referee and/or the ringside physician (as determined by the presiding commission) are the only individuals authorized to stop a contest.
- b) The fighter's Chief Second may concede the match by a method determined by the presiding commission.
- c) The fighter is permitted to concede the match to their opponent at any time during the bout by the following methods:
 - i) Tapping their hand continuously on any area of the PIT
 - ii) Placing one knee on the ground and one hand above the head
 - iii) Verbally submitting to the referee

12. Judging/Scoring

- a) All bouts will be evaluated and scored by 3 judges who shall evaluate the contest from different locations around the PIT fighting area. The referee may not be one of the 3 judges.
- b) Judges shall evaluate karate techniques, such as effective striking, effective takedowns and control of the PIT fighting area, effective aggressiveness and defense.
- c) Effective striking is evaluated by determining the total number of impactful legal strikes landed by a contestant
- d) Effective takedowns are evaluated by considering the number of successful executions of a legal takedown followed by efforts to finish the fight.
- e) Fighting area control is judged by determining who is dictating the pace, location and position of the bout.
- f) Effective aggressiveness means moving forward and landing a legal strike.
- g) Effective defense means avoiding being struck or taken down while countering with offensive attacks.
- h) A 10-point must system will be used during the bout based on effective fighting according to the criteria listed above. Karate Combat prioritizes productive aggressiveness so the fighter who gets results based on attacking should be favored over a fighter who counters if the results of the fighting action are similar.
